

Institute of Compassionate Presence begins Second Year

The Institute of Compassionate Presence has begun its second season at the Servite Center. The program provides “an experience to deepen compassionate living in personal and professional life.” It does this by looking at the dynamics of compassion both academically, through input from local and national presenters, and experientially, through use of integrative activities. If they wish, participants can attain CEUs and/or college credit through the College of St. Mary for attending the 8 session program held on the second Friday of each month. As one alum of the program said, “The ICP Program has been an amazing growth-filled experience for me. I have renewed faith in the future of our world and have been given tools and practices to help make that world a more compassionate place.”

ICP participants discuss Compassion Focus projects

Sr. Val, new Assistant Director of the Servite Center, participates in the ICP Program