

A story is told of a student who traveled a long distance to meet a famous rabbi.

The student asked, “Rabbi, how do I become wise?” The Rabbi looked at the student and answered, “From making good choices.” But Rabbi, how will I know how to make good choices?” The Rabbi responded, “From experience.” But, the student continued, “How do I get that experience?” The Rabbi answered, “From bad choices.”

Hasidic Tale